

The Beech Bugle

This term, the children in Beech class have thoroughly enjoyed exploring the theme of what makes a hero. Our literary journey began with engaging stories, including "Super Worm," "Farmer Duck," and "The Smartest Giant in Town," alongside a selection of non-fiction texts detailing how various individuals contribute to society as local community heroes.

A particularly memorable experience for the children was the visit from a veterinary nurse, who provided valuable insights into her professional role. The students were fascinated to learn about animal care, especially when given the opportunity to listen to the heartbeat of a rabbit and observe how to bandage a dog.

In addition, we welcomed a doctor to our classroom, who enlightened the children about the vital role doctors play in helping individuals who are unwell. The children were eager to learn how to assist others by practising the recovery position: an important skill in emergency situations.

Our final visitor this term was Vicar James, who shared his daily responsibilities, allowing the children to gain a deeper understanding of the life of a vicar. He also taught them about the significance of the Lord's Prayer, enriching their engagement with the values of community service.

Furthermore, the children eagerly embraced outdoor learning during their Forest School sessions. They created their own sketchbooks, sketched maps of the school grounds, and developed their navigational skills by interpreting simple maps and following trails.

Overall, this has been an amazing term of learning and growth for all the children in Beech Class.
