

The Beech Bugle

As we draw to the close of this term, it is a delight to reflect on the wonderful experiences our Beech class has enjoyed during our exploration of the topic, 'Where the Adventure Could Take Us'. It has truly been a fantastic term, filled with learning and discovery.

One of the highlights was our school trip to the Winchester Science Museum. The children thoroughly enjoyed this outing, engaging enthusiastically with the exhibits and deepening their understanding of the world and how things work. It was a joy to witness their curiosity in action.

In the classroom, we have been comparing different places around the globe, inspired by the delightful book 'The Snail and the Whale'. This has allowed the children to think critically about various climates and environments, sparking discussions about the diverse world we inhabit. Additionally, we have harnessed our imaginations through storytelling, using the book 'The Journey' as a springboard for our creative endeavours.

This term has also been a time of self-reflection as the children prepare to transition into Year 1. They had a fabulous morning with their new teacher, Mrs Shahinian, where they discussed their feelings and aspirations for the upcoming year. It has been heart-warming to look back on their progress since they joined our school last September.

In our Religious Education lessons, we explored the creation story, discussing the belief that God entrusted humans with the stewardship of the Earth. The class actively brainstormed ways they can care for our planet, leading them to switch off unused lights around the school and ensure that all taps were correctly stopped.

It has been a genuine pleasure working with all the children in Beech class this year. I wish them the very best as they embark on their adventures in Year 1.
